September 2013

ASOSAP WINS FIRST PRIZE

ripple effects of the prize started happening:

-a member of the Foundation is helping them find an export market for the Pokomchi handcrafts

-the largest cement business in Guatemala has offered ASOSAP free cement for our on-going construction projects in the villages

Thanks to all you who cast your votes. You are part of a whole new chapter of growth in our ministry to the Pokomchi.

You helped them move forward in helping themselves and their people.

"Our hearts are practically leaping out of our chests for joy!"
" I never thought we would actually win first prize!"

Within a week, Glenda and Dolores were summoned to Guatemala City to receive the first installment of the prize. Also, within short weeks, the

Dolores' Words of Acceptance

"We cannot have a beautiful guipil if each one of us threads, does not participate in the Design. All of us are important and all of us need the support of each other in order to weave a beautiful thing."

QUOTE OF THE MONTH:

Love is not blind --it sees more, not less. But because it sees more, it is willing to see less.

~Rabbi Julius Gordon

THE CHALLENGE BEGINS

The beautiful, treed property that we have owned for 6 years will finally come into its own. But lots of careful planning, wise decisions, and hard work are ahead. The construction of an educational, event, and retreat center over the next year will be the first challenging adventure. After that, will come putting it into successful and productive operation.

Besides offering a positive option to the Pokomchi community, it will generate income which will go into paying for the costs of the ministry. A step toward financial self-sustainability!

GOD IS BETTER THAN SACRIFICE”

NEWEST HEALTH POST READY

The physical upgrade of the tiny, dilapidated health building in Rosario Italia is completed, thanks to funds from generous folks in Oklahoma.

A full-time nurse will shortly be recruited to open the doors and offer desperately needed health care and teaching to this village and many surrounding villages.

ASOSAP has been holding monthly chronic patient clinics here since April of this year, receiving guidance from doctors in the States.

Great example of team work!
